

BASEBALL DART GAME

This game can be played by two players or two teams of any equal amount of players. The same rules used in Major League Baseball apply to this game.

The Board should be hung so that the center H is five feet three inches from the floor. Throwing distance should be ten feet; measured diagonally from the center of the Board to the throwing line. These distances can be modified to suit the players.

When two are playing the game the first player throws at the Board until he makes three outs. Then marking his score in the first half of the first inning. The second player throws his darts until he gets three outs. The game continues until nine innings are played.

When two teams are playing, the first player on team "A" throws a dart and continues until he gets an out or a hit. Then the second player on the same team gets his turn and so on until the side has three outs. The game continues until nine innings are played by each team.

SCORING

The H — in the center circle scores a home run.

The 3 — counts as a three base hit, scoring all runners on base.
