4028 BUYING AND SELLING

The average child begins to "play store" at a tender age, and this amusesment can easily be made the avenue to much information. Teachers and parents who have used Fishers Patent Toy Money several years, with gratifying results, have expressed a wish for something representing goods that can be exchanged for it in a mimic market. "BUYING AND SELLING" is the outcome of this request.

The combination presented here is only suggested. Any attempt to include all the arcticles wich might be profitibly used in such a school or home occupation must expand the box to unreasonable size. The assortment of toy money which it contains represents about One Hundred dollars, in gold and silver coins. The sheets of labels are to be cut so that each one is on a separate slip, and the small blocks can be wrapped in paper and labeled as articles of merchandise, or they can be labeled without being done up. The slips of manilla paper are for making bags for holding bran or sawdust which are to be duly labeled and represent a variety of goods, unless the youthful merchants are allowed to fill the bags with the "real things". The large block and the sample sheet are to be used in making bags. The strips of cardboard are expected to serve as the foundation for large pieces of cloth.

While the child is handling any commodity or its representative, let him learn where it comes from, that cork, for instance, is brought from Spain, and rubber secured from Brazil, and other interesting facts. In this way he can readily be instructed, as well as amused.

He must not be permited to handle anything which is poisonous ir will stain his clothes or injure the carpet. Small) ottles can be used for holding seeds or other things which are so apt to "litter" the floor.
