(Lion Coffee game premium by Woolson Spice Company)

Cut out red and black discs with sharp knife or shears. This is a game for two players. One player taking red discs, the other the black. The player holding the red discs places them on the dark squares within the black lines, the holder of the black discs places his in the dark squares of the opposite side. Discs must be played on dark spots only. The object of the game is for the discs to change places. This is done by moving and jumping as in checkers, only the player has the privilege of jumping his own men.

When the kind row spaces are filled, the discs in the king row may be moved in any direction, as in checkers. This enables the player to make room for any discs that may still be out of place.
